

Camp For Toddlers

Last-minute openings for wee ones

Like everything else in New York, camp experiences start early. While no one's shipping off a toddler on a camp bus, there are some fun summer sessions for the 3-and-under set. And no, it's not too late to register.

Children need to be 3 to enroll in a camp session at apple seeds, where each day comprises six 30-minute segments that include free play in the playground, snack, art, and a specialty activity like cooking, music, or movement. Camp runs 9:30am–12:30pm; campers can participate two to five days a week. Prices start at $580 ($522 for members) for a two-day program that lasts two weeks. Camp sessions run June 10th–August 30th at the Chelsea location; July 1st–August 30th at the UWS location. No diapers. Register at appleseedsplay.com. 10 W. 25th St. between B'way & 6th Ave.; 200 West End Ave. between 69th & 70th Sts.
